The New Line to be Established between New York and San Francisco—Foreign Purposes—Description of the Vessels.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Reference was made a few weeks since to a proposed line of auxiliary freight steamers between this port and San Francisco. At the same time was given a description of vessels and time expected to be made. The project has found favor with the California merchants, and it has been broached, so much so in fact, as it is the projectors have determined to lay the matter before the merchants of San Francisco and their aid in forming a company for this purpose. Mr. Dearborn, of the firm of Van Vleck & Co. of this city, and Capt. Goss, of the firm of Goss, Sawyer & Packard, the celebrated ship builders of Maine, have gone to San Francisco, and upon arrival will call upon and explain to the merchants the advantages that must necessarily accrue by the establishment of such lines. The idea of the projectors is to form a line of steamers that will be owned and controlled by merchants themselves, and who will feel obliged to patronize it as against overland railroads, whose encroachment upon the rights of the merchants of California are beginning to be severely felt; and it is thought by the projectors that this will be an entering wedge in breaking up the special contract system. The matter now lays with the merchants of California, who are asked to form a company that cannot be controlled by Pacific railroads, and thus, as it is, ridding themselves of what they feel to be the greatest monopoly that ever existed in this country.

The Shipping List of this city to-day publishes a description of one of these vessels and says: "There is in course of construction at a near ownership yard a style of vessel that seems likely to play a prominent part in the ocean carrying trade of the future. This keel to a large four-masted schooner with an auxiliary screw propeller, is now in stock in the yard of Messrs. Goss, Sawyer & Packard, for J. H. Winchester & Co., of this city. We have been furnished with a description of this new craft, which will be interesting to shipping merchants. She is built of wood of the very best quality. Her length on deck is 200 feet, breadth 38 feet, depth of lower hold 9½ feet, distance between decks 8 feet, combined length of masts [illegible] feet, and [illegible] feet. She is fitted with [illegible] parts of modern freighting steamers, having [illegible] condensing compound double engines, high pressure cylinder of [illegible] diameter, low-pressure cylinder of 34 inches in diameter and 30 inches stroke of piston. She is to have two boilers made after the most improved Scotch patterns, each 8 feet in diameter and 10 feet long, and she will have a two bladed propeller which will be turned perpendicular with the stern post and keyed when steam is not used.

This vessel will steam about nine knots loaded in [illegible] under steam and sail and with a strong leading wind will run about sixteen knots an hour. She will be finished and fitted in good shape, and have accommodation for a few cabin passengers. This vessel is intended for the Cuba sugar trade and will carry about 1600 hogsheads, and cost about $90,000 when completed and installed. No doubt of the success of this venture seems to be entertained by the owners and builders, who are all practical men of large experience in shipping and marine commerce. Indeed, they appear to be quite confident that this will be the vessel of the future, so far as the carrying trade is concerned.

In this connection it is curious to note the changes that have been wrought in marine architecture during the last forty or fifty years. Before the gold discoveries in California the model ship was short and deep, with full lines, bluff bows, square stern, and less than 1300 tons register. She was as strong as timber of best timber and workmanship could make her, and a comfortable craft. Few of these old-time ships are still in existence, and they look odd to us now that they are out of date.

"The gold discoveries in California heralded the clipper ships, which, being long and sharp, made wonderful passages. They were successful when freights were high and before steam [illegible] entered with them, but [illegible] they were unprofitable, being small carriers and requiring large crews. They, too, have almost disappeared.

Next came modified the clipper with sharp ends, flat floors and a good breadth of beam, and as a result, both a good sailer and a good carrier. Wooden merchant ships built in the United States in the last 20 years are mostly of this description. The 500 ton ship has been succeeded by a 2500 ton ship, and here the present improvement in sailing ships ends, except perhaps the three-masted schooner, which is now much longer than as a general rule ships were built forty or fifty years ago. Some of these schooners carry 1200 to 1500 tons of cargo. The barkentine is another modification of the brig, which of late years has become popular, as have also [illegible] backs of 12 to 15 tons.

The first screw steamers were propelled by side wheels, and the first Cunard and Collins boats running between this port and Liverpool thirty years ago were thought to be as near perfection as possible, but events proved the contrary. They had to burn 1.5 to 180 tons of coal per day to take them across the Atlantic in 10 to 12 days. The enormous quantity of coal they had to carry, with their old-fashioned, cumbersome machinery, left no room for freight, so they had to make the English iron screw steamers with compound engines. Some of the latest of these are 500 feet long and 6000 to 8000 tons register, and one of them, the [illegible], has made the passage across in [illegible] week.

Yet the question may fairly be raised whether this class of steamships is the perfection of a weatherly seagoing vessel. The old wooden ship was very buoyant, shaking the water from her with little danger of having her decks swept of stores. The modern iron ship is long and narrow, lunging through the water and rarely or never [illegible] to in a gale because she will not lie safely in that position. It is probable that there are yet great improvements to be made in iron seagoing vessels.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Topics of Talk on the Sound.

VICTORIA, Oct. 9.—A syndicate has been formed to purchase the Albion Iron Works in this city and convert it into a joint stock company for the manufacture of all kinds of machinery, agricultural implements, etc., capital $300,000.

Welch, Rithet & Co. have begun the construction of a new wharf for vessels of Ogden point at the entrance of the harbor, where a tract of land and water frontage has been purchased by them, and where there is a sufficient depth of water and ample wharf accommodation for a [illegible] of the largest class of seagoing ships. It is intended that the outgoing mail steamers shall touch at the new wharf instead of resorting as at present to Esquimalt, and that sea-going ships shall receive their cargoes of salmon there. As the P. C. S. S. company propose to place on this route [illegible] some of their largest steamships it is [illegible] that incoming cargoes will be discharged there as well. Should the [illegible] traffic warrant, extensive warehouses will be erected by Welch, Rithet & Co. on the point and a passenger and goods tramway built to the town. This vast improvement has been inaugurated by the survey of the site and the driving of piles for the wharves.

The East Wellington coal mine shaft is being rapidly sunk. Some of the [illegible] have been made through [illegible] of slate containing [illegible] of fern and leaf fossils of beautiful description. A small hoisting machine has been put in place, to give way shortly to one of a much more powerful kind, expected from San Francisco.

A saw mill capable of cutting about 20,000 feet per diem is also being erected.

The total pack from the several canneries may be estimated at about 85,000 cases, while the canneries have to carry over about [illegible] cases of cans.

He was taken to the hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the arm between the wrist and elbow.

SYNOD OF THE COLUMBIA.

MONDAY, Oct. 9.—Synod met pursuant to adjournment in the First Presbyterian church at 9 A. M.

After half an hour's devotional exercises led by Rev. John Reid, Jr., the roll was called and minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Rev. R. W. Hill presented the following:

Whereas, The alienation which has for so many years existed between the brethren of the Presbyterian church, south, and our own body, was, at the meetings of the general assemblies of both churches happily removed, and peace, amity and good will so far restored that delegates have been appointed to represent the churches in the general assemblies; therefore,

Resolved, That the synod regard this action of both churches as eminently wise, and as indicating a tone of christian spirit. We hail this consummation of fraternal relations with joy and gladness, sincerely hoping that it may be the harbinger of that happy time when an organic union shall be effected of all branches of our beloved Presbyterian church on the basis of our common standards.

The committee on bills and overtures reported on the overture from the presbytery of Oregon in reference to the establishing of a presbytery in Alaska.

On motion it was resolved that the matter be deferred for consideration at synod at its proper meeting when such meeting is regularly called.

It was ordered that the report of the home and foreign missionary committee and other important reports be printed in the minutes.

Also, That the stated clerk be requested to prepare an appendix to the minutes showing our growth as a synod by comparative tables which he shall set forth the work since the organization of synod.

Rev. I. H. Condit introduced a resolution concerning "the relation of baptized children to the church" (referred to on page 46, overture 19, of printed minutes of general assembly, 1881), calling attention of all members and churches within our bounds as a synod to the matter; and that the ministers and officers be admonished to urge upon our members, and adherents the necessity of impressing upon baptized children a true idea of their standing as members of the visible organization of the church.

The following persons were announced as officers of the woman's synodical committee on missions: President, Mrs. Wm. Strong, Portland; 1st vice president, Mrs. Robert Boyd, Walla Walla, W. T.; 2d vice president, Mrs. W. A. Swick, Roseburg, Or.; 3d vice president, Mrs. Ella B. Whitworth, Seattle, W. T.; Cor. Sec., Mrs. T. G. Armstrong, New Tacoma, W. T.; Rec. Sec., Mrs. J. H. Condit, Albany, Or.; treasurer, W. S. Ladd, Portland, Oregon.

The report of the secretary of the North Pacific branch of woman's foreign missionary board was read and adopted.

Rev. E. H. Condit offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the synod rejoices in the interest manifested in the cause of missions by the women of our church.

Resolved, That we extend to them our most hearty co-operation in this much neglected branch of church work.

Resolved, That the multiplication of these organizations is hailed with joy by the synod as a token of early advancement in our work.

Rev. I. H. Condit, in view of recommendations made by general assembly, (in printed minutes, p. 10, overture 1) moved the following: That our churches are urgently exhorted to bear in mind this recommendation, and make arrangements for the prayerful observance of the day of prayer for colleges, public exercises, and that an effort be made to bring all the children and youth in their several communities into connection with such public services.

Resolved, That upon such occasion special mention be made of our educational work in charge of the presbytery of Oregon, as conducted in the Albany collegiate institute.

Resolved, That the stated clerks of the several presbyteries are hereby instructed to notify their several churches of this action two weeks previous to the day of prayer.

Rev. T. M. Boyd, chairman of permanent committee on Sabbath school work, read an encouraging and instructive report on the subject, which was adopted.

Synod was then adjourned until 2 P. M., and was closed with prayer by Rev. Anthony Simpson.

Short Lived Californians.

From the San Francisco Bulletin.

The number of men who die in California in what may be called the prime of their years, occasionally arrests attention. The proportion of these sudden deaths appears to be large. They occur not among those who have been born on the soil, but among those who have been transplanted, and have been subjected to the varying conditions of poverty and affluence. It is not climate that kills them, since the climate is favorable to longevity. Native Californians live to an extreme old age. The centenarians are numerous. But those who have lived out of doors nearly all their lives. They have lived on simple food, have been on horseback a great deal. Indeed, the native Californian never walks if he can get a horse to carry him. He lives out of doors, never [illegible] ... [illegible] but generally dies of apoplexy or heart disease, but generally [illegible] of old age. The majority of those who [illegible] do not seem to reach extreme old age. The pioneers from other states have had checkered lives for the most part. There is a downhill for a great many people. The excitement is not good for them. It is [illegible] ... [illegible] The exceptions are those who have generally been temperate ... [illegible] They not only are temperate, but they are not subject to great excitements. The serene life is the one most favorable to longevity.

Why he felt small: If anybody ever longs to be a millionaire it is the youth who treats his girl to soda water and then finds he has mistaken a button in his pocket for a dime.—Texas Siftings.

OREGON LEGISLATURE.

Senate.

SALEM, Oct. 9.

Senate met pursuant to adjournment. President McConnell in the chair. All present. Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

On motion of Hirsch, S. B. 81, pending the reading of which the senate adjourned, was referred to a special committee consisting of the senators from Multnomah for amendments.

S. C. R. 8 was offered by Belyea calling for a joint committee to examine into the affairs of ex-Secretary of State Chadwick and his bondsmen. Adopted.

A message was received from the house stating that Lieutenant Schwatka had accepted the invitation tendered him by the legislature to deliver a lecture before that body in joint convention, and has named Tuesday, October 10th, as the evening.

S. J. R. 7 was offered by Myers, calling upon the secretary of state to furnish suitable desks for the senate and house of representatives. Adopted.

S. J. R. 8 was offered by Myers, approving the action of congress in excluding the Chinese from our coast for the period of ten years, and condemning members who opposed the measure. Referred to committee on federal relations.

On motion of Waldo H. B. 3 for relief of F. Henschel was taken up under suspension of rules and referred to a special committee consisting of Hirsch, Hall and Wright, with permission to report at any time.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

S. B. 105, Gates—to create the county of Klamath. The hour of 11 M. having arrived the senate adjourned to the hall of the house to vote for United States senator. After returning senate adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Senate was called to order by the president, Mr. McConnell, at two o'clock. All present.

S. B. 106, Reed—To redistrict the state into senatorial and representative districts, and fixing the number of the members of the legislature.

S. B. 107, Stearns—To amend corporation laws of Oakland. Rules were suspended and bill read a second and third time and passed.

On motion of Gates, S. B. 105 to create the county of Klamath, was read a second time by title under suspension of rules. Rules were further suspended, the bill read a third time and passed.

H. J. M. 1—For the early construction of a railroad between Crescent City and The Dalles; adopted.

H. J. M. 2—For aid in repairing the military road between Jacksonville and Fort Klamath; adopted.

H. J. M. 3—Praying for a survey of the Siuslaw river in Lane county; adopted.

H. J. M. 4—For a survey of Nestucca and Tillamook harbors; adopted.

H. J. M. 5—For the erection of a light house at the mouth of the Umpqua river; adopted.

H. J. M. 6—For improvements at mouth of Coquille river, adopted.

H. J. M. 7—For the reimbursement of the State of Oregon for expenses of Indian war of 1855-'56; adopted.

THIRD READING OF BILLS.

S. B. 101, Jessup—To establish a state reform school.

S. B. 109, Sigiln—For the relief of G. M. Dyer, read a second time by title under suspension of rules and referred to committee on claims.

S. B. 110, Hirsch—To legalize certain acts of the state treasurer.

S. B. 111, Hirsch—To amend chapter 5 of miscellaneous laws.

S. B. 112, Simon—To amend section 36 of criminal code.

S. B. 113, Colvig—To amend chapter 47 of section 6 of criminal code.

Hon. John Burnett was invited to a seat within the bar.

Starkweather, from committee on engrossment, reported S. B. 81 and S. B. 104 correctly engrossed.

Bilyeu introduced S. J. R. 7, submitting an amendment to the constitution of the state relating to the enfranchisement of women; adopted.

Sigiln introduced S. B. 114, to regulate the survey and measurement of timber; read second time by title and ordered to a third reading to-morrow.

On motion of Myers, the rules were suspended and S. B. 89 to amend section 1, title 1, chapter 20, relating to the fees of officers and other persons was taken up and referred to committee on counties. Senate adjourned.

House.

House convened at 10 A. M. Opened with prayer by Doctor Kinset. Reading of the journal was dispensed with.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Morrse introduced a resolution to permit the committee on enrolled bills to report at any time by handing the report to the secretary; adopted.

Dufur presented a petition from the citizens of Wasco county.

Marquam by consent introduced H. B. 164.

The committee by the chairman, Gilbert, presented a report on H. B. 15 with amendments; report adopted.

Thornton introduced H. J. M. 7, for adjustment of the expenses of the Indian war of 1855 and 1856; adopted.

Stewart introduced H. M. 8 for the encouragement of the building of a railroad from Roseburg through Coos and Curry counties in Oregon, thence to Humboldt bay in California; adopted.

The speaker laid before the house a telegram from Lieut. Schwatka, naming Tuesday evening at 8 P. M. as the time for delivering a lecture before the joint committee of the legislature.

Ready introduced H. M. 11, to accept the invitation and extend an invitation to the senate and state officers.

The consideration of H. B. 1 was set for 3 P. M. to-day.

On motion of Kelly the rules were suspended and the first order of business was taken up.

H. J. M. by Stanley for the construction of a railroad from Crescent City to The Dalles, Oregon.

S. B. 2, by Stanley.

H. J. 3, by Hayes, for a wagon road from Eugene to the Siuslaw; adopted.

H. J. M. 4, by Smith, for survey of Nestucca and Tillamook bays; adopted.

H. J. M. 5, Brown—For a lighthouse at the mouth of the Umpqua river; adopted.

H. J. M. 6, Morrse—For continuance of the improvements at the entrance of Coos Bay; adopted.

FIRST READING OF BILLS.

S. B. 7—For right of way to the Oregon Short Line railroad through the lands of the state.

Tanner rose for information concerning the power of the committee to compel witnesses to testify to the investigating committee.

Pending remarks by the chairman, Jamison, the senators entered the hall and the two houses proceeded [illegible].

JOINT CONVENTION.

To ballot for U. S. senator without change to the result: Mitchell, 31; Bennett, [illegible]; Williams, 1; Failing, 5; Geo. E. Williams, 2; [illegible] W. McBride, 1. Absent, 2.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

House reassembled at 2 P. M.

A message from the senate announced the passage of S. B. 101, to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among sheep; read first time.

The question under discussion at the time of adjournment, as to the power of the investigating committee to compel a witness to testify before the committee was resumed.

Dufur introduced a resolution directing the committee to take up such testimony as what he [illegible] upon written specific charges duly verified. The discussion upon this resolution took a wide range and revealed the fact that quite a number of the members were growing sick of this investigation business.

On motion of Kelly the further consideration of the resolution was indefinitely postponed.

Jones introduced H. R. 20, as follows:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this house that the investigation committee has power to compel a witness to testify to any specified charge of attempted bribery that may come to the notice of any member of the committee, and that it is not necessary that the charge be reduced to writing.

The house proceeded to the consideration of H. B. 55; read a third time and passed.

H. B. 1—To provide for pilotage and towage on the Columbia river, was read a third time and passed.

On motion, the vote by which senate bill No. 7 was laid on the table was reconsidered, and under suspension of the rules the bill was read a second and third time. Adjourned till 7:30 P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

House met at 7:30 P. M.

Consideration of S. B. 7 resumed. The motion going to suspend the rules and read a third time, the motion prevailed and the bill passed.

On motion of Mr. Kelly the order for reconsidering H. B. 1 was discharged.

Mr. Sharp, from the committee on counties, reported back H. B. 15 with amendments. On motion the bill was referred to a special committee of one consisting of one from each judicial district. Adjourned.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A beacon light of truth: "I believe in moderation in all things," said the red-nosed man; "I drink myself sometimes." "Great heavens!" exclaimed Fogg, "and you call that moderation!"—Boston Transcript.

An exacting officer: Said the Texas sheriff as he was about to spring the trap: "Kick and squirm as much as you can. There's about four thousand people present and we want 'em to have all the fun possible."—Hartford Times.

A good shot: A New York man, desiring to commit suicide, shot at himself four times without hitting. He will probably be given a position on the American rifle team in the next international shooting match.—Norristown Herald.

Survival of the fittest: A Newport snob recently went rowing with a small poodle. The boat capsized, the snob was drowned and the poodle swam ashore, and we're longing to know if this is a case of the survival of the fittest.—Texas Siftings.

No gentleman: A Chicago publisher makes note of the fact that he has never seen a lady reading a newspaper in a street-car. Well? He has never seen a lady smoking on a car platform, either. It simply goes to show that a lady is no gentleman.—Somerville Times.

Vindication wanted: A domestic in her uptown service, said: "Madame, if you wish to look at my trunk—" "Why, Bridget!" "Madame, I insist. Six months ago you lost ten francs. I know you suspected me of having found it, and I wish you to see that I do not carry it away in my trunk."—French Paper.

No sense of humor: Mlle. Bertie has two suitors—A, who is neither handsome nor young, but who is rich, and Paul, who is charming, but who has not a cent. "Which of the two do you like best?" asked one of her friends. "Oh," replied Bertie, "I like Paul the best, but I prefer to marry Ancle."—Paris Fun.

APPOINTMENT IN DEFAULT OF ELECTION.

Can the Governor Appoint a Senator if the Legislature Fail to Elect?

[illegible] the question above we insist, has in the constitutional power to appoint, under the circumstances that may exist upon the adjournment of the present session. We think it is by no manner of means an open question, and hold it to be reasonably clear almost, that if the legislature refuses to elect or determines that the office shall be unrepresented, the governor has no power to appoint, and whether a vacancy necessarily presupposes an incumbency or not the unbroken current of authority in the United States senate absolutely settles the practice against the former.

We are by no means seeking to forecast the future action of the present governor nor the possible doings of an election committee of the senate when partisan need of Mr. [illegible]'s vote may overweigh respect for political principle. We simply say, that the record made by the senate and we shall attempt no argument upon principle—effectually determines that Oregon for eight must be for two years unrepresented, if the legislature [illegible] ends without election.

The question arises upon the proper construction of the third section of the first article of the constitution, which is:

"The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof for six years." Then, after providing for classification and expiration so as to elect one-third every second year, the section proceeds: "And if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature which shall then fill such vacancies."

Whatever may have been the practice of the senate upon this question before 1825, it has been uniformly held since that time, announce that a failure by the legislature to make choice of a senator does not constitute a vacancy in which the governor may appoint a senator. In Lanman's case, the senate in 1825, upon full consideration, deliberately determined that, it was inconsistent with the constitutional power of a governor to fill, a seat for a full term by appointment; or as Senator David Davis put it, in [illegible] 1, 1879, in a question of admitting Mr. Bell of New Hampshire, in an interpretation of the section of the constitution: "When the legislature has an opportunity of choosing a senator, and fails, the governor cannot appoint."

This construction [illegible] been accepted by public men of all parties, [illegible] has been the uniform ruling of the senate up to [illegible] the admission of Mr. Charles H. Bell of New Hampshire, it is claimed by some that the Lanman decision was changed. That statement is not well founded. A careful examination of the proceedings in the Bell case will at once make this clear. Upon the admission of Mr. Bell the senate divided almost upon party lines—Mr. Bayard and Mr. Lamar voting with the majority, and his successor, Mr. Conkling, with the minority. There were two reports. The [illegible] minority report, [illegible] Jameson of [illegible] finally adopted.

We take that fact in support of [illegible] report, taking along with the concurrence of senators Carpenter, Edmunds and others who opposed, Bell's admission, that the New Hampshire legislature [illegible] which elected [illegible] had the constitutional power to elect, furnishing ground for holding that the ruling in the Lanman case reversed the rule established in 1825.

The minority report ... [illegible] vacancy happens [illegible] and only happens when the legislature has failed to make due election ... [illegible] appointment, or when the office once filled is vacated by death, resignation or otherwise." Further on however, and in explanation of the foregoing, the minority say:

"When it [illegible] appears that the person so chosen is unable to remain in office, or that happens that the legislature cannot meet and choose, the contingency ... [illegible] occurred."

Here ... [illegible] the majority of the elections committee thought ... [illegible] New Hampshire ... had failed to elect ... [illegible]

Mr. Bell was appointed under these circumstances: Mr. Wadleigh's term as senator from New Hampshire was to expire on the 3d of March, 1879. The legislature chosen ... [illegible] 1878, to terminate ... [illegible] 1877 ... was in recess when [illegible]

The legislature is [illegible] the expiration of a senatorial term ... [illegible] United States senator ... [illegible]

It would thus appear ... [illegible] senate ... [illegible] rule of construction ... [illegible] rule established ... in the Lanman case ... [illegible] the argument of ... [illegible] of Mr. Bell, it is plain ... [illegible] in the Lanman case ... [illegible]

Mr. Rollins, ... [illegible] "As we understand ... [illegible] application ... [illegible] may be summed ... [illegible] case a legislature ... [illegible] failed to elect a senator ... must prior to the ... [illegible] to elect. The senate of the United States has decided."—Globe, April [illegible]

Further on in the ... [illegible] to an old case—the ... [illegible] where a ... [illegible] September of ... [illegible] the legislature ... [illegible] a successor; in March ... governor appointed ... [illegible] admission by a ... [illegible] Angus Cameron, ... [illegible] the speaker, said ... [illegible] principle ... [illegible]

In fine, all ... [illegible] of Mr. Bell, ... [illegible] the authority of ... [illegible] any case presenting ... [illegible] to state of facts.

By the well-established ... [illegible] of the senate therefore, it seems clear that if the Oregon legislature now in session fails to choose a senator we shall have for two years but a single vote in that body.

SET BACK 42 YEARS.

"I was troubled for many years with Kidney Complaint, Gravel, etc. My blood became thin; I was dull and inactive; could [illegible] and was a [illegible] old man all over; could get nothing to help me until I got Hop Bitters, and now I am a boy again. My blood and kidneys are all right, and I am as active as a man of 30, although I am 72, and I have no doubt it will do as well for others of my age. It is worth a trial."—(Father.)—Sunday Mercury.

THE OHIO ELECTION

[illegible] and election will be held in Ohio [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] congress will be chosen [illegible] [illegible] the temperance [illegible] [illegible] form of a [illegible] [illegible] placing the liquor traffic [illegible] the same restrictions as regards Sunday [illegible] and the same regulations as to [illegible] to all other business.

It [illegible] not be strange that this is [illegible] an unfortunate [illegible] in the constitution of the state made thirty years ago there has been practi[cally] free whisky in Ohio so far as the re[illegible] of [illegible] or license fees could [illegible] This very immunity from taxa[tion] [illegible] strengthened the traffic and [illegible] aggressive and [illegible] in its [illegible] than it would otherwise have been [illegible] other states [illegible] keeps a resisting le[illegible] fees and struggle against restrictions [illegible] they [illegible] assert the right to go free of [t]axation and [illegible] carry on their business on [illegible] day the same as on other days. That they [illegible] of them [illegible] and violate the law [illegible] but they do not deny the right of the [legi]slature to tax their business and suspend [illegible] Sunday as is the case in Ohio

[T]he present phase of the liquor question in [illegible] is therefore a contest to secure [illegible] revenue regulation. Taking the platforms [of] the two parties the issue is presented in a [some]what different shape but the speakers and [illegible] have given it substantially the color [illegible] above indicated. The republican conven[tion] declares that the liquor traffic should be [ma]de to bear its share of the public burdens, [tha]t the constitution should be so amended as [to] give the people, through the legislature, [pra]ctical control over said traffic and that all [illegible] on the subject must be enforced until re[pea]led or abrogated. In other words the re[pub]licans declare in favor of taxing the traffic [an]d suppressing these evils which result from [illegible] are associated with open saloons on Sunday. [Th]e democratic platform asserts the doctrine [of] "the largest liberty consistent with the pub[lic] welfare," and "opposition to legislation [me]rely sumptuary." In addition to this, the [dis]tillers have adopted a platform favoring the [enf]orcement of all laws forbidding labor of [an]y kind on Sunday, and advocating a well-[di]gested license law that will yield a large rev[en]ue, reduce the number of saloons, and ele[va]te the [illegible]. They do not declare in [fa]vor of either party, but leave each member [at] liberty to vote as his conscience dictates.

Of course such a scheme cannot be carried [o]n within party lines. [illegible] large numbers of re[pub]licans are acting with the democrats, and [o]n the other hand large numbers of democrats [a]re acting with the republicans. While it is [ex]pected that the brewers, distillers, retail sel[le]rs and wholesale and retail drinkers will de[se]rt the republican party in large numbers [it] is believed that quite as many democrats [w]ho think the liquor traffic ought to be [b]rought under police and revenue regulation [w]ill supply the loss. An organization called [t]he law and order committee of Cincinnati has [is]sued an address to the people of the state, [w]hich has been signed by an immense number [o]f citizens, irrespective of sect or party. Ro[m]an Catholic, Episcopal, Baptist, Presbyter[i]an, Methodist and Quaker churches are rep[r]esented, and in the address democrats min[g]le with republicans, and in regard to nation[a]lity there are Americans, Germans, Scotch and Irish. The appeal is confined to one point viz. the suppression of the liquor traffic on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

Discussion of the subject by the press of the state shows that the people are thoroughly aroused to the importance of the conflict and when good government and sound morals are involved thousands of them are found rising above party in defense of their institutions. The observance of Sunday as a day of rest—as against its profanation as a day of drunkenness, debauchery and rioting—will always be strenuously contended for by the great mass of the American people, and any attempt to secure the popular sanction of free whisky and no Sunday" must signally fail.

THE WORST MIXTURE YET

A quack doctor of divinity named J. H. Acton, who "runs" a sheet of religious and political mongrelism in this city, of which both the religious and political ingredients are of the most doubtful kind, is one of J. H. Mitchell's most ardent admirers and supporters. Here is "natural selection" again. Everything in the form of quackery and imposture goes naturally in company with the pseudo-[illegible] pot[illegible] who is mak[ing] [illegible] fight" at Salem. The editor of this mongrel sheet who failed utterly as a minister of the gospel ran an honored religious journal—the Pacific Christian Advocate—down to the lowest ebb, and could find no occupation of a reputable sort that he was capable of engaging in, has sunk to the level of a Rip-[illegible]-Mitchell politician, where he evidently feels very much at home. Had he been content to earn wages from dirty politicians and jobbing monopolists, without vilifying those who oppose Mitchell or denouncing THE OREGONIAN we should have let him pass without notice in these columns. In fact we have from week to week refrained, thinking it possible he might receive some compunctions visitations of decency and propriety—and stop. But this pinchbeck doctor of divinity, anxious to commend himself to the favor of the delectable company of professional politicians and place-hunters, whom he has lately joined, keeps right on. Opposition to the debased politician whom every respectable journal in the United States denounces as unworthy, this ring and machine doctor of divinity declares to be "shameful." To members of the legislature who refuse to vote for him the most unworthy motives are attributed. Under the thinnest cover of spurious sanctity this reverend ring politician goes all lengths in defense and commendation of the most corrupt and immoral effort ever made in Oregon politics. Of course there is no honesty in it. The motive is as well understood as it would be if this doctor of machine divinity had published it to the world. His mongrel paper which mixes the worst kind of politics with the most uncertain kind of religion can't possibly earn its living and must have help. It may be added that no paper ever will earn its living from the people so long as it is ready to advocate all that is debasing and immoral in politics and all that is loose and [h]ypocritical in religion for such pay or other favor as lewd fellows of [t]he baser sort may think fit to give [i]t. One of the base uses to which the paper of this renegade pulpiteer has been put by its [illegible] masters is the publication of fulsome ar[ticles] about the "boss" to be copied into other sheets and paraded as expressions of the moral and religious portions of the community. Pall[illegible] One form of the highly moral argument has been this: Mitchell's history and character are known, and no doubt if the history and character of other men were discovered they would be found just as bad as those of Mitchell. There is no [illegible] in the world and [illegible] Mitchell might just as well be elected as anybody. Such is the product of this mixture of immoral politics and [fal]se religion under the hand of a quack doctor of divinity. [illegible] [illegible] supported by a [illegible] of affected piety and the [illegible] of [illegible] it is about the most [illegible] and [illegible] which [illegible] The [illegible] have yet been presented. The [illegible] resulting from such a mixture [illegible] reasons for description in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and then the ex[illegible] imagination must supply it, and then the ex[illegible] [illegible] will be an ounce of civet good apothecary.

THE STATE'S INSANE

The legislature has passed bills appropriat[ing] funds to complete the new asylum build[ing] at Salem and to furnish it and the gen[eral] impression about the capital is that ar[ran]gements will be made for transferring the [in]sane patients this fall. Unless this is done the building must stand unoccupied for [a] year, the state in the mean time paying a high rate for maintenance of the insane in the Hawthorne establishment at East Portland. On the score of economy and the present [illegible] the state seems disposed to take this consideration into account—the patients should be moved to Salem at the expiration of the current contract term. Estimates based upon experience show that the state can maintain them in its own hospital at half the cost under the present arrangement. But there is another reason as important as this. Should the contract be extended for another two years term it would certainly be the contractors' last chance and feeling this it would be but natural for them to make the most of it. Knowledge of the fact that there was no hope for future contracts would remove a powerful motive for liberal treatment. The system of farming out the insane is bad under any and all conditions and its only safeguard is the hope for extended contracts. If this be removed the danger is great. It is not intended to criticise the management under the current contract, but to point out the natural dangers of a bad system.

If the legislature decides to move the patients to the new establishment it has a most important duty in the organization of its service. It should be arranged upon an wholly free from the influence of politics. The board of managers should be men of character and wisdom in no way connected with the political affairs of the state. Experience elsewhere has shown that where various offices of state compose asylum boards, asylum management becomes part of a system of political patronage. Most efficient boards are composed of men who serve without pay. Such a board should be appointed for the new asylum and given full power to arrange its economy and service.

It is to be regretted that several people—one of them a lady—are attempting to secure places in the new establishment by improper methods. Wholly regardless of professional dignity and reserve, one man at least, in the hope of securing the position of chief medical officer, is indecently pushing his candidacy in the lobby. Without malice or unkind feeling toward Dr H Carpenter, it must be said that his conduct in this matter is extremely reprehensible. He is introducing a wrong method which if now successful, may produce lasting and unfortunate results. There are serious objections to Dr Carpenter. He has never had the special study or experience fitting him for the place he seeks, and is past the time of life when men readily acquire new things. Even in the usual work of medical practice he has not shown special abilities, and so we are informed by people who know him well, wholly lacks experience in executive practice and qualification for it. Again we say that no reflection upon Dr Carpenter is intended but we think now is the time to put on record a protest against a beginning which may introduce bad influences through party pressure or political action into a service which more than all others should be free from such influences.

A PLAIN INQUIRY

If the "only man" is the choice of so vast a majority of the republicans of the state how came it to be necessary for him to appear on the scene weeks before the legislature assembled, to employ every means known to machine influence to get members committed to him? How came it to be necessary to employ his great lobby to keep up the "pressure" for the man whom the people support with such marvelous unanimity? The fact is patent that the "only man" has very little support beyond what has been "worked up" under his own direction, and that of his mercenary followers.

The very indecency of his importunity is in itself a most sufficient reason for opposing him. Is a man to be elected to the senate because he wants the place, or because the people want him? Mitchell's "fight" has been founded on his own insatiable greed of office, which in itself is reason enough for his rejection. When he throws his arms around members and begs them to tell him, "in God's name" whether they are going to allow him to be "slaughtered," it becomes pertinent to ask whether they are to elect him for his own sake, as he desires, or whether they, as representatives of the people, should choose a man upon their own judgment to render to the state the service it has a right to claim.

If the eighteen—now twenty one—republicans not voting for Mitchell were endeavoring to force the thirty-three to vote for any particular man, their position would be untenable. But they occupy no such position, are actuated by no such purpose. They offer to the thirty-three the widest latitude of choice. The one man who is excepted is excepted not because of personal hostility to him, but because his history, his character and his political methods present insuperable objections. The offer to elect any one of the great number of unobjectionable men from whom choice may be made is fair, generous and reasonable. The minority have never claimed the right to "name the man." They have merely protested against the attempt to force on them the most objectionable man in the state.

We have declined to give any publicity to the Van Dersal matter at Forest Grove. But the findings of the church council are submitted to us with a request to publish them. While we comply we feel bound to say that as we view it the conclusion is a lame and impotent one. It was well enough doubtless to raise the point as to the manner in which the church should have dealt with the case, but his was for the church society and not for the public. All this part of the discussion will be brushed away by the general reader, who will see in it only a splitting of hairs to avert attention from the grossness of the leading acts. What was Van Dersal's conduct? Through him statements were put in circulation which reflected in a most infamous manner upon the character of sundry persons of known probity and honor. The pastor who desiring to protect the Christian character of members of his church takes a method of doing it which brings upon pure and innocent persons the scandal of the grossest and most odious of social crimes, will not be excused by a discriminating public, and in spite of all admonitions and recommendations made now or to be made hereafter we judge that the First Congregational church at Forest Grove will want no more of Rev. Van Dersal.

Mr Catson's bill for an act to organize school districts in incorporated towns of 10,000 inhabitants and to provide for the maintenance and government of public schools therein a copy of which is before us seems to be drawn mainly in accord with the principles which experience in the schools of this city has shown to be desirable. The sixth clause of section seven is however in conflict with section twenty. This needs adjustment. The bill would confer ample powers upon the people of each school district in which it would apply to do all that might be necessary to organize and sustain public schools. It proposes to make the board of directors in a city of 10,000 people consist of five members instead of three as now.

"The most important part of the fishers bill before the legislature is the regulation [illegible] respecting fishing on the bar. Engineers assert that the ship channel has lost three feet in depth wholly due to operations of salmon with deep draught [boa]ts. The bill prohibits fishing on the bar and for a considerable distance inside. Whatever affects the Col[umbia] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] the interests of the [illegible] [illegible] at the most vital point. No question before the legislature is of greater importance than this.

Steamships of modern construction are making speed and distance upon minimum consumption of coal. [illegible] example [illegible] Jacob [illegible] belonging to the Pacific [illegible] [illegible] sailed from New York [illegible] 15th Sept [illegible] before [illegible] making [illegible] the whole [illegible] [dis]tance an average of 10 [illegible] on a [illegible] consumption of [illegible] 14 [illegible] The San Juan is a little larger than the Oregon and something smaller than the Columbia.

It is the opinion of all persons outside [illegible] state who are watching our senatorial contest that we would [illegible] credit if we should elect some man who could conceive that seduction, adultery, bigamy, swindling, perjury, bribery, assumption of a name [illegible] fraudulent intent, etc, etc, were offenses against morals as well as against the laws.

What a fine campaign cry for the next [illegible] [illegible] would be, Mitchell or nobody. [illegible] the prospect to which those who insist that no man shall dictate to the whole party [illegible] [illegible] which talk about sitting the session out and permitting no election. Mitchell or nobody would indeed be an exhilarating cry. It would bring out the vote though.

Since the administration saw fit to interfere in the politics of New York and force upon the republicans a ticket they didn't want the said republicans now think seriously of leaving to the administration the job of electing the said ticket. Such is the talk in numbers of the best republican journals of the state.

Mitchell will be elected to-morrow. To-morrow has been the promise for more than three weeks. And—

To-morrow, to-morrow and to-morrow
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
Till the last syllable of recorded time.

Not for Mitchell.

Salem Statesman

We have it from trustworthy sources that there are not to exceed within the bounds of Yamhill county two hundred Mitchell republicans. In Dayton precinct there are not to exceed two. In Amity precinct not more than seven. Nearly all who favor Mr Mitchell's election have at sometime during this senatorial contest been in this city to work for the [illegible] Notwithstanding these facts Yam[hill] is still misrepresented by three votes for Mr Mitchell for United States senator.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

ADDRESS BY SENATOR SLATER ON RIVER IMPROVEMENTS

A [illegible] meeting of the Board of Trade was [illegible] at [illegible] Mr [illegible]

W H Hay [illegible] relative [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] It [illegible] in [illegible] of the tariff [illegible] All [illegible]

[illegible] Schuyler [illegible]

[illegible] work does not [illegible] permanent results I will [illegible] pay. The plan is quite the same as I propose to construct at the port of New York modified to suit the conditions existing at your bar.

I en[illegible] you by [illegible] post some documents relating to the plan as applied to the bar of this port and [illegible] I command your serious attention [illegible] restores relating to your bar.

I may add that if I get the contract for permanently deepening and straightening the Columbia river bar a certain interest will be reserved for such citizens of Oregon as may wish to become financially interested in the work on satisfactory terms. If they do not care to become interested and my friends will execute the work, but I make the offer for your consideration. Outside of any direct interest your people may take in the work the improvement of the bar is a matter of vital interest to your entire country and as such I trust your board will not only consider my proposition and publicly discuss it, but that you will also lead your press to fully discuss it alongside of any other plan that may be proposed.

I can fully assure your people that your bar and river will never be and never can be improved by any other plan. By my plan it will be permanently improved without any future work such as dredging etc. to keep it open, and all I want is a fair hearing to convince all. I am thoroughly opposed to any plan that starts out with any contraction of the channel and mouth by jetties of any sort as the little increase in depth got by such means only lasts so long as the work and expenditures kept up, and when that stops the channel and bar becomes shoaler and worse than ever. Every port in the world where jetties have been tried proves this. Besides such contraction of the mouth causes the channels of the entire river above to shoal and when floods come the whole country becomes submerged by the river overflowing its banks because the water cannot get away with its natural facility. Eads damming of the mouth of the Mississippi river caused the great flood in that valley the present year and each year the flooding will become worse, as it is more expensive and difficult each year for him to maintain the depth of the channel through the south pass. That his jetties at the mouth will soon completely fail is well known and proved by the fact that Senator Jones at the last session introduced a bill asking for a subsidy to build a canal route from the gulf to New Orleans. At Fernandino Florida, that naturally had 16 feet of water at high tide since the jetties were commenced two years ago there now strike drawing but fifteen feet. No improvement at Charleston S. C. or Jacksonville Florida commenced three years since. But about one foot extra depth is claimed at Galveston Texas. But when the government expenditures are stopped these ports will then plainly show how they have all been ruined by these jetties. The great port of Havre in France, is now so much shoaled by the bar within and outside of its jetties that the government is now contemplating building an outside port on the sea coast with the startling fact is acknowledged by the French engineers that the jetties and contraction of the mouth of the harbor by them has ruined the inner harbor and its river channels to silt with sediment to the extent of 275,000,000 cubic yards, to remove which would cost equal to build several new harbors or say $110,000,000 American money. Now this is not the fate that will come to your harbor if you permit any contraction of its mouth or impediment to the outflowing current of your river, and not even balanced by any benefit to your bar that would last six months, even if a foot or so of extra depth was at first obtained which I doubt. By my plan I believe I can give it six feet increased depth over the bar besides making it perfectly straight and of easy entrance at all times without a pilot and to be permanent for all time but to do so I must have outflowing currents free and unimpeded by contraction of jetties, either at the bar or any point of the lower river. Your harbor would then be also a harbor of refuge for vessels of any draught or condition to sail into on any wind for the channel would be wide enough to tack in, it even on a stiff eastern gale—any other wind would be perfectly fine and plenty of sea room to tack. If it was not useless I could give you pages of harbors that have been ruined by jetties and I defy any engineer in the world to name a harbor that has been permanently improved by contracting the mouth of it by jetties or dams. I have made personal visits to most of them in this country and in Europe and they are all failures without an exception.

Now, gentlemen, this letter is only preliminary to the consideration of the subject and as soon as I hear from the board of government engineers I will give them my plan in full with works marked out on chart and if your board like I will send you a copy of it. I have made a special study of your bar for years and know what I am talking about fully, otherwise I would never offer to execute such a work at my own risk, when it is the easiest matter in the world to get the government to take that risk. I know at first there will be considerable opposition on the part of the government engineers to my plan either on the part of the board or in Washington because my plan is diametrically opposed to their usual method of contracting the mouth, but on full consideration of it by them, I do not but what they will readily acquiesce in its execution if they do not recommend it.

I will be happy to meet your board at its rooms and explain the matter in full by diagrams, etc., by addressing them, etc., on the subject.

With great respect, your obedient servant,
HENRY F. KNAPP, C. E.

To Board of Trade, Portland, Oregon.

REPORTS.

From Messrs Thompson, Kapus and Cock report [illegible] the secretary correct, in every particular adopted.

ADDRESS BY SENATOR SLATER.

During the session, Senator Slater who was present by invitation, occupied a seat at the president's right. After the routine business was over Hon. D P Thompson arose and suitably acknowledged the services of Senator Slater to this board as the representative in Washington and called on the senator for a speech. [illegible] the people of Portland were interested in whatever affected the material interests of the state [illegible] was particularly thankful for the data contained in the board's address to congress prescribed through Mr Thompson. It contained valuable and important statistical data which he had used in [illegible] in former years the greatest difficulty that Oregon's representatives had to contend with when they asked for appropriations was to make a nation and congress understand [illegible] attention and the necessity for immediate action. When we talk of [illegible] population [illegible] institute a comparison of our population with [illegible] of New York, New Orleans [illegible] is in favor of legislation which regulates freight and fares. The Erie canal runs through the state of New York parallel with its railroad lines and as regular [illegible] the small [illegible] a great free highway [illegible] ever be [illegible] rates [illegible] parallel rail [illegible] for west as the Mississippi river. The [illegible] of water ways is [illegible] present river at [illegible] unwarranted extravagance [illegible] most [illegible] congress.

It is well I say [illegible] the interest [illegible] in the improvement of [illegible] particularly the [illegible] But we should not overlook—Portland [illegible] the river as we [illegible] of the Willamette. We have received large appropriations for the Cascade locks and several more appropriations will be required before they are available and [illegible] will be of much value until [illegible] is made at The Dalles. We [illegible] have a railroad and it serves a good purpose. [illegible] appreciate the [illegible] more than I do but it is unsafe for a state to [illegible] condition [illegible] ships [illegible] two [illegible] likely that [illegible] will go the water way [illegible] the [illegible] of the Northern [illegible] of the [illegible] charges.

[illegible] interests south. The improvement of [illegible] I believe [illegible] railroad, trade [illegible] by rail.

Senator Slater then paid a tribute to Oregon expressed surprise at its growth in two years, referred to the completion of the Northern Pacific in near future and predicted for it that in ten years a population of 1,000,000 and for Oregon enough to send three representatives to the floor of congress. He closed: As it has always been my pleasure in the [illegible] the best of my ability so will it be in the future. I have no interests beyond those of the state.

On motion of Secretary Arnold a vote of thanks was tendered to Senator Slater and he was unanimously elected an honorary member of the board.

THE COLUMBIA RIVER RAILROAD

The Time Card Adopted between Portland and Eastern Points—Table of Distances.

So soon as terminal facilities are completed at Albina—the work is delayed on account of inability of saw mills to furnish lumber—the following time card for passenger trains of the O R & N Co's railroad will go into effect:

No 1 East Bound.

Leave Albina*	4 15 P M
Arrive at Bonneville (supper)	6 55 P M
Arrive at The Dalles	10 25 P M
Arrive at Umatilla†	4 45 A M
Arrive at Wallula Junction (breakfast)	6 35 A M
Arrive at Walla Walla	8 35 A M

No 2 West Bound.

Leave Walla Walla	8 25 P M
Arrive at Wallula Junction (supper)	7 10 P M
Arrive at Umatilla†	2 05 A M
Arrive at Bonneville (breakfast)	7 45 A M
Arrive at Albina*	10 15 A M

*The transfer boat connecting with the east bound train will leave Ainsworth dock at 4 P M and will arrive there at 10 10 A M from the west bound train.

†At Umatilla close connection will be made with the train for Pendleton, arriving there about 9 15 A M. Returning the train will leave Pendleton about 6 30 P M, connecting with the train for Portland.

TABLE OF DISTANCES.

Following is the distance by rail from Portland to the principal stations in the Inland Empire. The site of the proposed Union depot in Couch's addition is taken as the starting point.

	Miles		Miles
Clarnie	10	Umatilla	186
Troutdale	18	Pendleton	230
Rooster Rock	24	Wallula Junction	213
Oneonta	33	Walla Walla	244
Bonneville	41	Prescott	245
The Dalles	86	Dayton	283
Blalocks	132	Riparia	301

Albina is one and four-tenth miles from the proposed depot, and the East Portland station (near the O & C depot) is one and eight-tenths miles.

Oneonta is nearly a mile above Multnomah Falls. The company desired to make a station at the falls but the cost of a side track in the mountains would have been enormous.

Section 15 was so amended as to allow the mayor of the city of Portland a permanent salary of $[illegible] and members of the common council $[illegible]

Section 1.9 which provides that the city shall not incur indebtedness exceeding [illegible] $100,000 [illegible] so amended as to authorize the common council [illegible] $100,000 [illegible] city hall.

Section [illegible] was amended so as to allow [illegible] street improvements as it deems necessary [illegible] its own property without giving ten days notice through the press or otherwise.

Section 117 through the last of which property owners are enabled to avoid the payment of an equitable tax in some instances for the necessary improvement of streets adjacent to their property was so amended as to authorize the city to tax property lying upon and within one hundred feet of the improvement.

Section 198 which provides for an appeal from the verdict of damages and benefits, was so amended as to remove the disqualification of a citizen of Portland from serving as a juror in such case, by reason of the fact that he is a taxpayer of the city.

Section 35 was so amended as to authorize the concurrence of a majority of a quorum of the common council to transact any business which may properly come before it except the final passage of ordinances and the confirmation of appointments.

Section 94 was so amended that before any street improvement can be approved and accepted it must first be inspected by the full street committee, the superintendent of streets and city surveyor and their reported favorably to the council which shall also declare the improvement sufficient and satisfactory before the final approval and acceptance shall be made.

The above embraces the principal portion of the important business transacted at the extra session of the common council last night.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

Mrs. Paxton's Exhibit of Painting—List of Premiums Awarded to Exhibitors.

The pavilion is fast losing the beautiful appearance which it has presented during the past [illegible] weeks, as the many exhibits which have been [illegible] there are taken away one by one. Although rather late, one exhibit hitherto neglected deserves special mention:

MRS. N. J. PAXTON,

Who has been devoting the past months of the current year to art studies, shows in the work she exhibits an artistic touch, an untiring devotion to her chosen profession and an advancement in every detail that inspires admiration. Among the most attractive of the exhibits in the art department of the pavilion at the Mechanics' Fair just closed were her portraits in crayon and water colors. No part of the exhibition was more thoroughly admired by those who know fine pictures when they see them and value them accordingly than was the collection of portraits, the work of Mrs. Paxton. The center piece shown was a tribute to the memory of her deceased father, the late Mr. D. [illegible] Gray, of Albany, and was perfect in the lifelike expression of the kindly face and snowy hair and beard. As compared with portraits in oil, these crayons are much more lifelike in tone and expression, and well merit the praise universally bestowed upon them. The water colors are done to the life, from the [illegible] russet on the cheek of manhood to the sea-shell pink of the baby's lip. Mrs. Paxton is a close student and is not content with the excellence already attained, but is striving with each picture for greater heights in her art. With a great reverence for nature she studies to copy it closely, recognizing the fact that the more nearly she succeeds in this the greater will be her triumph in art. She has brought to this work the painstaking care of her mature years, seen readily and executes with a clear touch. Persons who desire to secure lifelike portraits of friends that will enliven as with a familiar presence the four walls that separate the world from the most consecrated spot that it contains—home, should call at Mrs. Paxton's studio in Multnomah block and view her work. No more pleasant and appropriate surprise for Christmas time than one of these faithfully executed portraits could well be planned. Both artist and work are eminently deserving and should receive recognition and encouragement.

THE VAN DERSAL MATTER.

The ex parte council called by Rev. S. S. Van Dersal of Forest Grove, Oregon, to its adjourned session held at Forest Grove, beginning October, 1882, finds the following conclusions:

The ex parte council called by Rev. S. S. Van Dersal to meet at Forest Grove, [illegible] the following state of facts and circumstances which finally led to said call:

1. That Mr. Van Dersal, from his social intercourse with certain members of the Congregational church of Forest Grove, of which he was at the time pastor, and from some reports that he had heard, was led to the mistaken impression that there was on the part of some of the members of said church, improper and perhaps illicit conduct, in violation of which the church's character and standing and [illegible] were in peril, as well as the interests of the college in that place.

2. Acting from these impressions, this he did, not after advice from Christian brethren, with whom he consulted, and under a pledge of secrecy on the part of the board of trustees of said college, he made a statement of supposed facts before the board, affecting the Christian character of the [illegible] members referred to. This council cannot but feel that this was a sad mistake, but we believe it to have grown, although taken with the best of Christian motives.

3. In about three weeks from the time of the above statement, the church formally requested of Mr. Van Dersal a copy of the statement made. Mr. Van Dersal, by what he saw and heard, justly [illegible] were seeking grounds of legal prosecution against him, rather than to adjust and settle the matter in the church, refused to give such a copy as a matter of legal protection to himself.

4. In about a week from this time the church proceeded to suspend Mr. Van Dersal for the reason that he had refused to furnish said copy of statement, while admitting that he had made it before the board of trustees. At the same meeting, and after the suspension of Mr. Van Dersal, charges were preferred against him as follows:

"We, the undersigned, members of this church, charge Rev. S. S. Van Dersal as follows: That he has willfully and maliciously made slanderous statements concerning us to so great a number of persons as to make the matter public, and therefore we demand of this church that Mr. Van Dersal shall be required to prove these slanderous statements, or to retract them."

A committee was appointed to wait upon Mr. Van Dersal and inform him of the same. At an adjourned meeting he appeared and claimed that the church had not proceeded according to its constitution and by-laws as laid down in Matt. 18:15-17. The church claimed that the nature of the matter was such and its publicity so great that the rule in Matthew did not apply. The church by vote declined to reconsider its action. Thereupon Mr. Van Dersal withdrew and the trial proceeded, which resulted in his excommunication.

"Four points were submitted by the latter to this council for the consideration of the council:

1. "For proceeding contrary to the law of Christ as recorded in Matt. 18:15-17, which is the law adopted by the church."

We find that there is a difference of opinion between the church and Mr. Van Dersal as to the application of this law. At the time that the church first acted on the matter they seem to have felt that it had become so far public as to put it beyond the application of the law referred to. Mr. Van Dersal insisted that they should have proceeded according to it and therefore refused to put in a defense when cited to trial. We are of the opinion that there was error committed by both parties. It seems to us that inasmuch as the statement was made to the trustees under a pledge of secrecy on their part, those members of the church having knowledge of such statement could and should have acted in the spirit of Matt. 18:15-17, and that adjustment of matters at issue and reconciliation of parties should have been sought at that time in a quiet way instead of by the open judicial action of the church, by which the matter was divulged to the world. It seems to the council that the time for judicial action on the part of the church had not yet come and that some effort should have been made in a quiet way and in a brotherly spirit to secure an adjustment of difficulties and a reconciliation of the parties. The records of the church do not disclose that any such efforts were made by them.

On the other hand we believe it was a mistake on the part of Mr. Van Dersal to insist on the application of the above law under the circumstances, as a condition of his recognizing the legality of the action of the church when cited to trial.

2. "For unlawfully suspending his membership." We think that the alleged grounds of suspension were not sufficient, for the reason that nothing had as yet been alleged against Mr. Van Dersal except the fact of his refusal to furnish the copy of statement and the fact that he had made such statement before the trustees. The preferment of charges against him followed this act of suspension.

3. "For preferring charges against him under false pretenses and without specifications."

We find by the church record that Mr. Van Dersal is accused in substance of "willfully and maliciously making slanderous statements against members of the church."

We suppose that this refers to his statement before the board of trustees. There seems to be nothing in the evidence to indicate anything of malice on his part. He seems to have acted only with a desire to protect the Christian character of the members of the church and also to guard the interests of the college. The charges are evidently lacking in specifications, giving no particulars whatever.

4. "For proceeding with an unlawful trial and finally excommunicating him from her fellowship and communion."

It is a well settled principle of our polity that excommunication is always a very grave matter, and especially so as applied to a pastor of the church. As we understand it, the principle is well settled, that before a church excommunicates a pastor it should ask the advice of sister churches by council. We cannot but feel that by the hasty excommunication of Mr. Van Dersal without council, the church greatly erred and subjected him to great injustice. While therefore we find no evidence of any intentional unchristian act or motive on the part of any of the parties concerned, we earnestly but respectfully and fraternally recommend to the church, so far as to rescind or modify its action as to reinstate Mr. Van Dersal in good standing and fellowship.

PORTLAND, Oct. 4, 1882.

EASTERN FREIGHT SITUATION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Another day has caused almost a suspension of business at the wharves of California vessels and [illegible] somewhat intensified the general quietness of the market, which almost amounts to nothing more than dullness. The fact is movements via Cape Horn are mainly by a few shippers and these have but a certain quantity to go forward on each vessel, and while shipments are made the vessel drags slowly before the remainder of the cargo is made up. As outside shippers are very few and when found do not as a rule have very large consignments. The [illegible] now the leading vessel in berth and will finish loading Monday morning. The [illegible] has only about 1400 tons of her capacity, but her agent is not pushing her as the vessel to follow, viz., the Gen. McClellan, will not be ready for about two weeks. Rates are firm at last quotation, with a scarcity of tonnage on berth. The supply of [illegible] available ships, and [illegible] will no doubt [illegible] the wants of shippers [illegible] to-day for Van Vleck [illegible] land freights continue active and as the season advances shipments increase. Movements include 175 [illegible], 14 bags coffee, 275 cs canned goods, [illegible] cheese, 200 bxs lemons, 105 bxs raisins, [illegible] prunes, 30 cs citron, 10 crates [illegible], 150 cs chickory, 605 kegs salt [illegible], 100 cs sauces, 550 cs bitters, 300 bxs tin and 240 bags [illegible].

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—There are no important changes to note in the freight market which remains very quiet and without any prospect of improvement although it is possible that later there will be a movement in iron, the result of long stoppage of work in the iron regions. Shipments at present are mainly of rough freight, chiefly of raw material and such as do not pay shippers very high rates for transportation. The Pacific clears to-day and will go away Monday, weather permitting. Tonnage is still in very limited supply and is wanted at full rates. However, as California does not offer inducements either outward or homeward, ship owners are adverse to accept business.

Freights at Philadelphia are rather slow and the agent there is offering to take freight at New York rates, where they are generally $1 per ton lower. The Boston freight market is very quiet and the Knee Soule drags along slowly. However, the agent expects to get her off in all next week. The bark Sinewa will follow. Railroad freights at Boston are moderately active, shipments including 1500 packages of fish, 425 cases canned goods, 465 cases canned fish.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—General markets as a rule remain steady and though business is somewhat retarded by a stringency of the money market and a difficulty in effecting discount of merchants' notes and acceptances, the distributive movement is well up to the average at this season and the exportation [illegible] prejudice a slowly gaining, especially for cotton. The money pressure has put an effectual check upon speculation which had been comparatively light all through the season. Dealers restricting their purchases as near as possible to actual requirements. That prices should be as steady as they are under this condition of influences is an indication that holders of merchandise believe in the stability of current values and are able to carry their stocks instead of pressing them upon the market at a concession. There is reason for believing that the worst of the financial stringency is over and that from this time on the situation will show general improvement. The head of a well known local banking house is reported as saying the stringency is over and that 6 and 8 per cent will be the ruling rate for the rest of the year. Rates for commercial paper are expected to ease up in a few days. The stringency is strictly confined to the eastern centers, the western and southern money markets being well supplied with funds and amply prepared for trade, which is reported very satisfactory.

Wheat ruled stronger till yesterday, when there was a partial reaction.

THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD, of which the above is a complete plat, is situated next to Albina, and between and fronting on both the extension of Fourth street, E[illegible] Portland, and the Vancouver road. All the lots in Blocks 25, 27, 28, [illegible] and 30 are 50x120 feet, with twenty-foot alleys through the blocks. All the other [illegible] are 50x[illegible] 100 feet. The streets are wide and have all been cleared, while the lots [illegible] level and can be very easily cleared.

We now offer for sale for a short time a limited number of these Lots and Blocks at reasonable prices and on easy terms.

THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is unquestionably the best field for investment, and the most desirable place for location now in the market. Its close proximity to the cities of Portland and East Portland, and to the heavy improvements now being carried out by the various companies under the direction of Mr. Villard—the Dry Docks, Elevators, Machine Shops and other works of these companies, its nearness to the proposed Street Railway [illegible] street, also to the Albina Ferry, together with the proposed [illegible] Ferry, in East Portland, will make the property very accessible from all parts of these cities. These advantages will necessarily attract a large population, and in the meantime make this the most popular and valuable suburban property in this vicinity, while in the near future it must furnish homes for the rapidly increasing population of Albina, and then its value will be at least five times what we now offer it for. We will show the property and give full information to all who may apply to us personally, and inquiries addressed to us by mail will receive prompt attention.
